VI.

In accord with the Findings and Recommendations, the Board hereby finds that each count set forth in the Complaint, and as recapitulated in Paragraph II above, have been established by a preponderance of the evidence.

VII.

If any of the foregoing Findings of Fact is more properly deemed a Conclusion of Law, it may be so construed.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

I.

The Board has jurisdiction over Respondent and the Complaint, and an adjudication of this matter by the Board members as set forth herein is proper.

II.

Respondent was timely and properly served with the Complaint, and all notices and orders in advance of the hearing and adjudication thereon, in accordance with NRS and NAC Chapters 630, NRS Chapters 241, 622A and 233B, and all legal requirements of due process.

III.

With respect to the allegations of the Complaint, the Board concludes that Respondent has violated NRS 630.301(4), Malpractice, as alleged in Count I. Accordingly, Respondent is subject to discipline pursuant to NRS 630.352.

IV.

The Board finds that, pursuant to NRS 622.400, recovery from Respondent of reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred by the Board as part of its investigation and disciplinary proceedings against Respondent is appropriate. The Board has reviewed the Investigative Committee's Memorandum of Costs and Disbursements and Attorneys' Fees, and the Board finds them to be the actual fees and costs incurred by the Board as part of its investigative, administrative and disciplinary proceedings against Respondent, and finds them to be reasonable, necessary, and actually incurred based on: (1) the abilities, training, education, experience, professional standing and skill demonstrated by Board staff and attorneys; (2) the character of the 1 work done, its difficulty, its intricacy, its importance, the time and skill required, the responsibility 2 imposed and the prominence and character of the parties where, as in this case, they affected the 3 importance of the litigation; (3) the work actually performed by the Board's attorneys and staff, 4 and the skill, time and attention given to that work; and (4) the product of the work and benefits to 5 the Board and the people of Nevada that were derived therefrom.

6 V.

7 If any of the foregoing Conclusions of Law is more properly deemed a Finding of Fact, it 8 may be so construed.

9 ORDER

10 Based upon the foregoing Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, and good cause 11 appearing therefore,

12 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that:

13 1. Respondent has violated the Medical Practice Act, as alleged in the Complaint, as 14 follows: one (1) count of NRS 630.301(4).

15 2. Pursuant to NRS 630.352(4)(e), the Board shall administer a written public 16 reprimand to Respondent.

17 3. Pursuant to NRS 630.352(4)(j), Respondent shall submit to a physical and mental 18 examination testing his competence within six (6) months of service of this Order, the cost of 19 which to be borne by the Respondent.

20 4. Pursuant to NRS 630.352(4)(k), Respondent, if found competent to practice 21 medicine, shall complete twelve (12) hours of Continuing Medical Education relating to the 22 management of surgical patients with potential colon perforation within six (6) months of a 23 finding of competency. The aforementioned hours of Continuing Medical Education shall be in 24 addition to the requirements that are regularly imposed upon Respondent as a condition of 25 licensure in the State of Nevada pursuant to NAC 630.153(1).

26 5. Pursuant to NRS 630.352(4)(h), Respondent is hereby ordered to pay a fine of two 27 thousand dollars ($2,000.00) per violation of the Medical Practice Act, for a total fine in the

FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATION

TO: Ian Cumings, J.D.
Deputy General Counsel
Nevada State Board of Medical Examiners
9600 Gateway Drive
Reno, Nevada 89521

Dietrich Von Feldmann, M.D.
7696 Stone Bluff Way
Reno, NV 89523

1. Introduction

This matter was heard in the Reno office of the Nevada State Board of Medical Examiners (the "Board") on August 17, 2022. Present were Ian Cumings, J.D. on behalf of the Investigative Committee (the "IC"), Respondent Dietrich Von Feldmann, M.D. ("Respondent") representing himself, and the undersigned hearing officer. The IC submitted exhibits 1-20, which were admitted by stipulation. Appearing on behalf of the IC was David Shih, M.D. who was properly sworn as was Respondent who testified on his own behalf. No other witnesses were called.

2. Allegations

The Complaint alleges a single count of Malpractice, a violation of NRS 630.301(4), which is premised upon the allegation that Respondent failed to order an immediate abdominal radiograph to exclude the possibility of colon perforation when Patient A, an 80 year old male;

1 complained of severe pain on June 20, 2018, after a colonoscopy performed by Respondent. IC 2 Exhibit 1. The malpractice claim further alleges that Respondent failed to recognize and 3 appreciate the gravity of the free air in Patient A's right upper quadrant, which suggested a colon
4 perforation and warranted immediate surgical evaluation. Id. No answer was filed by Respondent
5 although Respondent denied the allegations by way of his hearing testimony.

6 3. Witnesses and Testimony

7 In support of the IC allegations, the IC called David Shih, M.D. Dr. Shih testified as to his 8 credentials, which are partially reflected in IC Exhibit 18. Transcript of Hearing Proceedings 9 ("TR"), pp. 10-13. Dr. Shih was then directed to the circumstances underlying the Complaint 10 with regard to which he testified that, based upon his review of the medical records provided by 11 the IC, Respondent "did not act upon the standard of care." TR pp. 14-15. In so concluding, Dr.
12 Shih testified as to the medical records, which he indicated provide as follows.

13 Patient A saw Respondent for a colonoscopy on June 20, 2018, at which time Respondent 14 "found there were a cecal polyp, an ascending colon polyp, and a marked left-sided 15 diverticulosis." TR pp. 15-16. According to the medical records, per Dr. Shih, Respondent 16 removed the polyps via a procedure called endoscopic mucosal resection, one complication of 17 which is perforation. TR 16-17. Dr. Shih described the procedure as entailing the injection of a 18 solution to raise the polyp, after which a snare, coupled with electrocautery, is utilized. TR 16.
19 The site, as treated by Respondent, was then subject to a hot biopsy with forceps where the polyp 20 was not already completely removed. Id.

21 The medical records indicate that during the evening following the procedure, Patient A 22 was suffering from abdominal pain that prompted a call to the hospital. TR 18. Respondent
23 prescribed analgesics based upon the belief that Patient A had post polypectomy coagulation 24 necrosis syndrome. Id. According to Dr. Shih, Patient A's complaint should have triggered an 25 order by Respondent for abdominal imaging, which Respondent failed to order. TR 19.

26 The following morning, June 21, 2018, Patient A presented at an emergency room and a 27 CT scan was ordered by another physician. TR 20. The CT scan showed a large amount of free 28 air in Patient A's upper right quadrant and a few foci of gas in the porta hepatitis. The transverse

1 colon was also mildly dilated, diverticulitis was evident, and there was also evidence of a cyst.
2 TR 21. Per Dr. Shih, the presence of the free air would not typically be seen and is most 3 indicative of a bowel perforation, which could be life threatening and lend itself to fecal leakage
4 that could cause sepsis. TR 21-22.

5 Per Dr. Shih's review of the medical records, Respondent reviewed the CT and maintained 6 that the free air was attributable to post polypectomy coagulation necrosis syndrome; however, 7 Dr. Shih was repeatedly adamant that "[b]y definition, there is no free air in the condition called 8 post polypectomy coagulation syndrome." TR 22. The free air, according to Dr. Shih, 9 distinguished post polypectomy coagulation syndrome from a bowel perforation, in that a bowel 10 perforation causes free air whereas there is no free air in post polypectomy coagulation syndrome.
11 TR 22-23.

12 Noting the free air as shown from the CT scan, it was Respondent's suggestion that a 13 needle be placed in Patient A's abdomen to release the air, which, according to Dr. Shih, is not 14 appropriate. TR 24. The medical records also indicate that Respondent had considered a 15 gastrografin enema, which, according to Dr. Shih, could worsen a perforation. TR 24-25. What 16 should instead have been done, according to Dr. Shih, was an urgent surgical consultation. TR 17 25.

18 Suspecting a bowel perforation, the then treating physician ordered a surgical consult. TR 19 25-28. TR 29-30. The surgeon ultimately removed the right colon due to damage from massive 20 distension and extensive air within the soft tissue surrounding the colon that the right colon could 21 not recover from. Id. Part of Patient A's omentum also needed to be removed due to the 22 perforation. Id.

23 Dr. Shih opined that he believed Patient A would not have survived absent the surgery and 24 was adamant throughout his testimony that, when Patient A reached out post- procedure, 25 Respondent should have directed Patient A to immediately go to urgent care or an emergency 26 room to address the likelihood of a perforation. TR 31-32. According to Dr. Shih, Respondent's 27 failure to do so was below the standard of care and constituted malpractice. TR 32.
28

1 Respondent questioned Dr. Shih, touching upon Dr. Shih's educational timeline predating 2 his residency (TR 33-34); the number of colonoscopies Dr. Shih has performed (TR 35); and how 3 Dr. Shih would have treated Patient A, as to which Dr. Shih testified that he would not have done 4 a hot biopsy touchup as it increases the risk of perforation and that he would have attributed the 5 post-procedure complaints to a perforation (TR 35-36, 43). Dr. Shih was also clear that he would 6 not have ordered a gastrografin enema and that it would be "contra" to do so in that it could 7 exacerbate a tear. TR 37-38, 41.

8 On redirect, Dr. Shih reiterated his experience with post coagulation necrosis syndrome 9 and the number of colonoscopies he has performed both solo and with fellows. TR 38-40. Dr.
10 Shih also reiterated that when there is a complaint of pain after a colonoscopy, abdominal imaging 11 should be undertaken. TR 40.

12 Respondent was permitted recross, during which Dr. Shih noted that the surgeon described 13 a serosal tear, indicating that the tear was complete through the colon wall from the inside of the 14 colon wall through the outside of the colon wall. TR 42-43. At nine (9) centimeters, Dr. Shih 15 described the tear as big and complete. Id.

16 The IC rested its case, after which Respondent testified on his own behalf. Respondent
17 was adamant that he believed Patient A was suffering from post coagulation necrosis syndrome 18 and that he would not have ordered a surgical consult. TR 45. Respondent believes that there was 19 only a superficial tear (which he called a "cat scratch"), from which air was permitted to escape
20 via micro perforations, and that Patient A could have been treated with antibiotics and pain 21 medication, with the needle procedure to relieve the free air. TR 45-49, 52-53, 63-66. According 22 to Respondent, he did not believe the surgeon's perforation determination because the surgeon did 23 not note fecal spillage (as opposed to the pathologist who did). TR 48-49. Respondent also did 24 not believe Patient A with regard to the pain level reported by Patient A given that Patient A ate 25 cookie; Respondent believed Patient A slept through the night or at least stayed home through the 26 night and did not go to the emergency room until next day (TR 49, 57-58); and Respondent noted 27 that Patient A had a history of abdominal pain (TR 59-60). Respondent also did not believe that 28 the perforation described by the surgeon had anything to do with Patient A's symptoms and

1 continued to assert that the colon injury was superficial. TR 55. Respondent further testified that 2 he thinks that there was no perforation when Patient A was transported to Renown by Care Flight, 3 which he claimed was supported by the pathology report, which is Exhibit 17. TR 60, 62. Under 4 cross-examination, Respondent continued to maintain that Patient A was suffering from post 5 coagulation necrosis syndrome and not a perforation. TR 67-68.

6 The IC called Dr. Shih in rebuttal. Dr. Shih reiterated that the distinction between post 7 polypectomy coagulation syndrome and a perforation is free air – free air indicating a perforation 8 – and that the surgeon documented a tear and that the pathologist documented was transmural, 9 meaning that the tear had gone through the whole bowel wall of the colon. TR 70, 74-76, 79-80, 10 82. Dr. Shih further reiterated that the most likely source of the free air in Patient A's upper right 11 quadrant was due to either the endoscopic mucosal resection or the hot biopsy forceps. TR 72.
12 Dr. Shih also took issue with Respondent's claim that the surgeon's failure to note fecal spillage 13 countered the surgeon's finding of a tear given the fact that Patient A had not eaten in preparation 14 for the colonoscopy performed by Respondent, preparation noted as adequate for the procedure;
15 and, therefore, the two pieces of crackers that Patient A had eaten would not have rendered 16 sufficient bowel content to extravasate. TR 72-81. To the extent fecal matter was addressed on 17 the pathology report, Dr. Shih testified that it supports that there was a perforation with leakage 18 otherwise it would not have been noted as present and, therefore, Respondent's reliance upon the 19 pathology report is misguided. TR 81, 88.

20 4. Findings

21 Given the pain as reported by Patient A, the noted free air, the surgical intervention, the 22 resulting surgical procedure, and the pathology report, there can be no doubt that Patient A was 23 suffering from a colon perforation and that Respondent should have considered the likely chance 24 of a perforation as opposed to being committed to an erroneous conclusion that Patient A was 25 suffering from post coagulation necrosis syndrome. To discard the intervention of other 26 physicians who recognized the issue and to disregard their conclusions upon such intervention, 27 which is what one would have to do to accept Respondent's position as raised in his defense, is 28 unreasonable. Even in light of the medical records reflecting the perforation and the explanation thereof by Dr. Shih, Respondent remained adamant that he would not have considered the possibility of a perforation nor ordered a surgical consult, specifically stating at the close of the proceedings "I would have done everything the same way if I would have a case like that again." TR 99.

5. Recommendation

For the reasons set forth above, inclusive of the credible testimony provided by Dr. Shih, I find that the IC met its burden of proof in relation to Count 1 of the Complaint against Respondent (the only count alleged), and I respectfully recommend that the Board confirm that Respondent committed malpractice as set forth in the Complaint.
